

ABSTRACT

A bathing article having detergent contained on a surface layer for disposable use includes a bathing substance which has a porous structure and a thin layer of detergent or thin
5 coating of soap on the surface of the bathing substance preferably by spraying. It is ready to use after wetting. The quantity of the detergent or soap layer is for use only about one time. Thus it is disposable and especially desirable for one time consumption and hygiene-conscious occasions (such 10 as restaurants and hotels).
